Tigers

Tigers are not scrawny creatures. They are the largest members of the cat family. Tigers can retract the claws in their paws. They draw the claws back when they stroll from place to place. Tigers like to eat raw meat. They hold it in their sharp claws and rip it apart with their powerful jaws. Many projects have been launched to protect tigers. These projects are staunchly supported by people who want to save these animals from extinction. Let's applaud them for their fine efforts!

Answer these questions about the passage you have just read. Remember to answer in full sentences.

1. Are tigers scrawny creatures?

2. What do tigers like to eat?

3. How do tigers use their claws and jaws when they eat?

4. Who should we applaud?

In each column, first add the sound on to the blends. Then build your own words by trying each letter of the alphabet in front of the sound. If it's a real word, write it down in the column.
